

Grove of Narberth

Nestled in the rolling Pembrokeshire countryside sits the idyllic Grove of Narberth, a truly magical retreat with a light hearted and unbuttoned feel. This hotel is widely regarded as one of the finest small luxury hotels in Wales with an outstanding reputation for its sensational food and warm hospitality.

Its elegant house and charming cottages are surrounded by manicured lawns, flower borders, meadows and mature trees all sat in their own glade with a meandering stream with views to the Preseli Hills.

Warm professionalism and bonhomie pervade here, creating the opportunity to showcase intimate relaxed hospitality at its very best. Inside you'll find meticulously restored interiors, full of atmosphere created with a blend of hand-crafted contemporary furniture and Welsh antiques, arts and crafts. Lovingly restored and thoughtfully designed this hotel has a delicate eye for modern luxury whilst never losing its unique sense of individuality.

Staying at Grove

The Grove offers 25 intimate guest rooms and suites, most of which have been recently refurbished and designed by acclaimed interior designer Martin Hulbert. The most recently refurbished cottage rooms had unique and delightful glass sunlounges added to them, extending the rooms out into the gardens and creating a beautiful 'outside-in' feeling.

Guests in need of pampering will enjoy the deep cast iron baths and wonderful in room massages. Gaze out of the windows for scenic views of the Preseli mountains, or explore the Pembrokeshire Coastal National Park, its sandy beaches, little harbours and unrivalled coastal walks.

Prices start from £350 per room, inclusive of breakfast. Room types include:

Dining experiences

The hotel has 2 restaurant offerings including the fine dining restaurant 'Fernery' and a more relaxed and informal restaurant the 'Artisan Rooms'. Afternoon tea is also offered. Guests can expect exceptional food, expertly prepared by talented Executive Head Chef, Douglas Balish.

The cuisine has won national awards and critical acclaim, including 3 coveted AA Rosettes, Wales Tourism Awards and listing in the Good Food Guide. Grove is the only 5 star hotel in South West Wales, as well as being AA Hotel of the Year for Wales 2020 and the Sunday Times Best in Wales 2020.
